

Entrepreneurship Week

Celebrating entrepreneurs and small businesses in the Wabash Valley

To honor these men and women, Entrepreneurship Week shines a light on those who turn their passions into reality and are igniting Indiana's economy. June 20: Lemonade Day! presented by Junior Achievement & Fifth Third Bank, Lemonade Day is a national program created by ISU alum Michael Holthouse. The educational program takes a summer time favorite and turns it to a practical application of youth entrepreneurship, financial literacy and philanthropy. Kids will be set up across the Wabash Valley using the lessons learned to earn their first dollar and raise money for their charity of choice. If you have an interested child registration is open until June 17 at terrehaute.lemonadeday.org but as a community member you are challenged to try out at least three lemonade stands and see the next generation of local business owners.
